May 22nd, 2020 - In 1973, Modiano co-wrote the screenplay of "Labe Lucien," a film co-written and directed by Louis Malle. It focuses on the involvement of a boy in the French Gestapo after being denied admission to the French resistance. The film caused controversy due to the lack of justification of the main character's political involvement.

Free Men Les Hommes Libres Film Review Hollywood Reporter
June 2nd, 2020 - The evolution of a young Algerian immigrant from illiterate factory worker to full-fledged freedom fighter in France during World War II is by far the most pellucid aspect of writer-director Patrick Modiano's novelists family facts. Patrick Modiano is a French novelist and recipient of the 2012 Nobel Prize in Literature. He has written more than two dozen novels, as well as children's books, and screenplays. Though his work was little known in the English literature world before the Nobel Prize, his work has now been translated into 30 different languages.

Jean-Patrick Modiano French ?? Patrick Modiano born 30 July 1945 generally known as Patrick Modiano is a French novelist and recipient of the 2014 Nobel Prize in Literature. He previously won the 2012 Austrian State Prize for European Literature, the 2010 Prix Mondial Cino del Duca from the Institut de France for lifetime achievement, and the 1978 Prix Goncourt for Rue des Boutiques.

In his introduction to the Occupation Trilogy, William Boyd makes the case that the 1974 Louis Malle film Labe Lucien for which Modiano wrote the script should be considered the fourth part.

His most famous films include the crime film Elevator to the Gallows (1958), the World War II drama Labe Lucien (1974), the romantic crime film Atlantic City (1980), the Edy drama My Dinner with Andre (1981), and the autobiographical film Au Revoir Les Enfants (1987).

Five years after he wrote La Place de l'Étoile, Modiano co-wrote the screenplay for Louis Malle's Oscar-winning film Labe Lucien, a piece of writing that has arguably reached more of.
